Biographical Sketch

John Edward Festle, S.J. was born on July 28th 1925, in Chicago, Illinois, one of four sons born to Katherine and John Edward Festle Sr. He attended grammar school at Our Lady of Lourdes from 1930 to 1938 and high school at Loyola Academy in Chicago between 1938 and 1942. Festle entered the Society of Jesus soon after high school graduation, on August 8th 1942, and subsequently entered Seminary at Xavier University in Cincinnati (1942-1946). From 1946 to 1949 he attended West Baden College at Loyola University Chicago, receiving his B.A. in Latin and Greek (1947) his Licentiate of Philosophy (1949) and his M.A. in Greek (1949). Between the years of 1949 and 1953 he studied at Oxford University, receiving a second B.A. in Latin and Greek Literature. Festle then studied Theology at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome, receiving his Licentiate of Sacred Theology in 1957. Throughout the course of his academic pursuits, he also studied at the University of Fribourg in Switzerland (1950), the American School of Classical Studies in Athens (1952), the Vergilian School in Cuma, Italy (1956), and the Villa S. Ignazio in Florence, Italy (1957-1958).

He received his first teaching appointment in 1958, in the Classical Studies Department of the Milford College of Liberal Arts at Xavier University. In 1961 he was promoted from Instructor to Assistant Professor, and in 1966 to Associate Dean of Milford College. Additionally, he served as the Milford College Librarian throughout his time at Xavier (1958-1966) and traveled as a visiting professor, holding positions at Loyola University Chicago (1962-1963; 1965), Fordham (1963) and Gonzaga (1964).

In February of 1966 Festle began his career at Loyola University of Chicago as an Assistant Professor of Classical Studies. Fluent in Latin, Ancient Greek, and Italian, he would go on to teach several graduate and undergraduate courses in the classics throughout his academic career. He was promoted to Associate Director of the Honors Program in 1968, Freshman Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences in 1975, and Associate Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences in 1977. Festle also became involved in Loyola University's Rome Center, teaching there for the 1969-1970 school year and subsequently assisting in programming throughout the remainder of his Loyola career.

Throughout his career, Festle remained active in the greater academic community, both nationally and internationally. He often gave lectures, published frequently in his area of study, and served as delegate to several conferences, including the International Conference on Classical Studies in Bonn, West Germany (1969), the National Association of Honors Councils in Williamsburg, Maryland (1973) and the Illinois Council for Humanities and Public Issues (1974). Additionally, Festle remained actively involved in the Jesuit community, giving frequent sermons, serving as Loyola's Jesuit delegate to the Province Assembly of the Chicago Province (1976), and helming and participating in multiple religious retreats. He also occasionally wrote prose and poetry as a hobby.

Upon being diagnosed with cancer of the tongue, and eventually lymphoma, Festle took a leave of absence from his position at Loyola in 1982. He never regained his health and passed away in Chicago, at the age of 58, on November 12, 1983.
