

David Ingram, Short CV

Education:

David Ingram received his BA (1970-1973) from the University of California, Irvine. He received his MA and PhD (1973-1980) from the University of California, San Diego. He studied German Idealism with Henry Allison, Robert Pippin and Herbert Marcuse; social and political philosophy with Richard Arneson and Gerald Doppelt; and 20th Century German and French Continental Philosophy with Frederick Olafson, who directed his dissertation: Truth, Method, and Understanding in the Human Sciences: The Gadamer-Habermas Controversy. He studied briefly (1986) with Jean-Francois Lyotard at the University of Paris VIII.

Research and Teaching:

David Ingram's principal areas of teaching and research are: Philosophical Hermeneutics and Critical Theory; Habermas, Foucault, Lyotard, Arendt; Anglo-American political philosophy; philosophy of law and human rights; philosophy of social science; critical race theory, and Anglo-American feminism.

Books Authored (10):

David Ingram is the author of:

World Crisis and Underdevelopment: A Critical Theory of Poverty, Agency, and Coercion (Cambridge University Press, 2018).

Ethics and Development: An Introduction; co-author Thomas Derdak (Routledge Press, 2018).

Habermas: Introduction and Analysis (Cornell University Press, 2010). Southeast Asian edition: Rawat Publications, 2014.

Law: Key Concepts in Philosophy. London: Continuum Int'l Publishing Group, 2006. Portuguese translation: Filosofia do Direito: Conceitos Chave em Filosofia, trans. José Alexandre Durry Guerzoni. Porto Alegre: Artmed, 2010.

Rights, Democracy, and Fulfillment in the Era of Identity Politics: Principled Compromises in a Compromised World (Rowman and Littlefield, 2004).

The Complete Idiot's Guide to Understanding Ethics; co-author Jennifer Parks (Pearson MacMillan, 2002). 2nd Revised Edition 2010. Polish translation: Etyka dla Zoltodziobow, Robert Bartold, trans., Wrzesien: Rebis, 2003. 2nd Revised Edition, 2010. Latvian translation: Celvedis Etika. Riga: Dienas Gramata, 2011.

Group Rights: Reconciling Equality and Difference (University Press of Kansas, 2000).

Reason, History and Politics: The Communitarian Grounds of Legitimation in the Modern Age (State University of New York Press, 1995).*

Critical Theory and Philosophy (Paragon House Publishers, 1990).

Habermas and the Dialectic of Reason. (Yale University Press, 1987) Portuguese translation: Habermas e a dialectica da razao, Sergio Bath, trans. Editora Universidade de Bresilia, 1993. **

Books Edited (3):

David Ingram is the editor of:

The History of Continental Philosophy: Volume 5: Critical Theory to Structuralism: Philosophy, Politics, and the Human Sciences (University of Chicago/Acumen/Routledge 2010-2014)

The Political: Readings in Continental Philosophy (Basil Blackwell, 2002).

Critical Theory: The Essential Readings; co-editor Julia Simon (Paragon House Publishers, 1991).

Articles and Chapters

David Ingram is the author of almost 80 journal articles and book chapters; 25 short entries; and 30 book reviews.

Other Notable Facts

David Ingram books have won, or have been nominated for, prestigious prizes. He was co-recipient (with Tom Wren) of an NEH Summer Teaching Institute Grant. He held the position of Distinguished Visiting Research Scholar at Michigan State University (2006). He has delivered keynote addresses at many meetings and conferences. He has directed more than 20 dissertations to completion. He was recipient of Loyola University Graduate Faculty of the Year Award (2012-13). He was member of the Executive Committee of the Society for Phenomenology and Existential Philosophy from 1998-2001.