

ROST 382 Human Rights: The View from Rome

John Felice Rome Center

Spring 2024

Sala Felice

Tuesday - 6:45 PM – 9:15 PM

Instructor: Dr. Nicola Di Mauro – ndimauro@luc.edu

Office Hours: By appointment

Please note: this is an Engaged Learning course, approved for the Service-Learning category, satisfying the Loyola University Chicago Engaged Learning requirement. All students must complete the service learning experience and related assignments in order to successfully pass this course.

Course Description

The course aims to discuss with the students the socio-juridical developments of human rights and their applications in the Mediterranean area. The course provides basic tools for understanding the history and principles underlying human rights. It is organized in two parts to discuss human rights related to two fundamental issues of the contemporary age: migration and religious freedom.

Human rights are closely linked to the concept of justice. The general aim of the course is, therefore, to reflect on the forms of justice and on the different paths for its construction. To do so, the course includes a Service Learning component, which culminates in students' reflections during the last sessions. As part of their Service Learning experience, which should take at least 20 hours, students are asked to learn, through encounter and engagement (in person and/or virtually), how individuals and specific populations in Italy and the Mediterranean area are affected by one or more of the themes explored during the course.

Learning Outcomes

On completion of the course students should be able to:

- demonstrate knowledge of history and principles underlying human rights;
- assess application of human rights related to migration and religious freedom;
- identify current challenges regarding the enjoyment of human rights in the Mediterranean area;
- demonstrate self-reflection, anchored in the service-learning experience.

Course Material

Assigned readings and other assigned material shall be posted and/or linked on the course's Sakai page.

Course Structure

This course approaches human rights from an interdisciplinary perspective, analyzing different layers that affect human rights discourse. Course sessions are generally designed to include three main components:

Attendance Policy

In accordance with the JFRC mission to promote a higher level of academic rigor, all courses adhere to the following absence policy. Prompt attendance, preparation and active participation in course discussions are expected from every student.

- For all classes meeting once a week, students cannot incur more than one absence.

The final course grade will drop by 1% for each absence beyond the allowance specified.

Attendance is mandatory in class. Students should consult the on-campus nurse or call the on-call doctor if they are sick. The collective health of the JFRC is everyone's responsibility. Do not attend class if you are ill. In the event of missed classes due to sickness or the obligation to quarantine, the offices of the JFRC Academic Dean and Student Life will work with students and professor to ensure access to course content.

Late or Missed Assignments

Late or missed assignments will not be accepted for grading without the authorization of the instructor. As per the JFRC academic policies, students who miss any scheduled exam or quiz, including a final exam at the assigned hours will not be permitted to sit for a make-up examination without approval of the Associate Dean of Academic Affairs. Permission is given rarely and only for grave reason; travel is not considered a grave reason. Make-up exams will only be given for documented absences.

Academic Honesty

You are expected to respect copyright and intellectual property rights.

Plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty are unacceptable and will be dealt with in accordance with Loyola University Chicago's guidelines.
