David Sims grew up in Champaign, IL, but soon headed north to attend Saint Olaf College in Northfield, MN. There he earned a B.M. in Church Music/Organ with Catherine Rodland and John Ferguson, served as a cantor for the student congregation, and was a teaching assistant in theory and ear training. While at Saint Olaf he toured nationally and internationally with the Saint Olaf Choir and held several leadership positions with the group. He wound up a Hoosier by earning a M.M. in Organ Performance from Indiana University, Bloomington, studying with Dr. Larry Smith.

David serves as Director of Music at North Christian Church, Columbus, IN. During the week he also works for Goulding & Wood Pipe Organ Builders of Indianapolis, where he helps wire, voice, tune, and maintain all of the organs they build and service.
