Education:

1969: Diploma from Classical Lyceum, Turin.

The curriculum in classical studies required eight years of Latin and five of Greek.

1973: Licenza in Lettere; Scuola Normale Superiore, Pisa.

Founded by Napoleon, the Scuola Normale Superiore of Pisa is a highly selective institution which, through a national competition, accepts a maximum of 25 students annually. The curriculum requires the successful completion of a degree program at the University of Pisa, along with specialized courses and exams at the Scuola itself, including the writing of an annual thesis.

1973: Laurea in Classical Studies; University of Pisa (summa cum laude).

Included in my curriculum was classical philology, Greek papyrology and Medieval Latin. I graduated in Greek literature. My doctoral dissertation was on the treatise On the Resurrection, attributed to Athenagoras, the 2nd century Christian apologist and philosopher.

1977: German language study; Goethe Institut, Staufen, Germany.

1983: Certificate of Proficiency in English; University of Michigan (Ann Arbor).

Languages:

Greek and Latin;

Fluency in Italian, English, German and French;

Working knowledge of Spanish, Portuguese, and classical Hebrew.

Present and Past Teaching Positions:

2008 – Present: Full-time Professor of New Testament and Early Christianity and John Cardinal Cody Endowed Chair in Theology at the Loyola University of Chicago.

Courses and seminars: The Figure of Jesus in the NT; Introduction to the NT; Gnosticism; Revelation; The Synoptic Gospels; The Figure of John the Baptist; The Historical Jesus; The Gospel of Matthew; The Gospel of Luke and the Book of Acts; The Figure of Mary Magdalene; The Birth of the Messiah; Forgiveness (integrative seminar; co-teaching); The Gnostic Gospels; Apocalypticism; The Apostolic Fathers.

2006: Appointed to the John Cardinal Cody Endowed Chair in Theology at the Loyola University of Chicago.

1995 - 2008: Professor of History of Christianity, University of Udine.

Courses and seminars: Introduction to the History of Christianity, New Testament, the Synoptic Gospels, the historical Jesus, the figure of John the Baptist, Apocalypticism, Revelation, and Gnosticism.

1990 - 1995: Professor of Church History (Medieval and Modern); University of Udine.

Courses and seminars: Introduction to Church History, Catharism, history of the missions, and pre-Reformation Catholicism.

1983 - 1990: Associate Professor of History of the Origins of Christianity; University of Turin.

Courses and seminars: Origins of Christianity and Early Judaism, Apocalypticism, the figure of John the Baptist, New Testament, and Gnosticism.

1979 - 1983: Assistant Professor of History of Christianity; University of Turin.

Seminars: Patristics and New Testament (esp. Paul and Revelation).

1975 - 1979: Teaching Adjunct (Assegnista Ministeriale) in the Department of the History of Religions; University of Rome.

Seminars: Patristics (esp. Novatian and Origen) and Gnosticism.

Awards, Fellowships, and Other Positions:

1979 - 1990: Member of the Editorial Board of the Rivista di Storia e Letteratura Religiosa (RSLR), Turin.

Aug. - Oct. 1985: Fellowship at the Newberry Library of Chicago.

Research subject was the syncretistic use of the figure of John the Baptist among Native Americans, esp. of Mesoamerican area and Mayan culture.

Since 1985: Member of the SNTS.

July - Aug. 1987: Research Grant at Tyndale House, Cambridge (UK).

Research subject was the figure of John the Baptist in New Testament traditions.

1990 - 2001: Member of the Advisory Board of Rivista di Storia e Letteratura Religiosa, Turin.

Since 1990: Member of the Advisory Board of Annali di Storia dell'Esegesi (ASE), Bologna.

1991 - 1999: Local coordinator of a national research project on History of Jewish and Christian Exegesis.

1993-1999: President of the Associazione culturale di Amicizia Ebraico-Cristiana (AEC) of Udine.

1995 (year): Visiting scholar at the Princeton Theological Seminary (USA).

I completed a major article on the halakhic teaching of John the Baptist and worked on my commentary on Revelation.

Since 1995: Member of the SBL.

Besides contributing scholarly papers at various meetings, I co-organized and then fully organized (including fundraising) the Italian Evenings (1996-2003). These were held yearly at the Annual Meetings of the AAR and SBL, with the co-sponsorship of the Italian Ministry of Higher Education, the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, various Italian Consulates, the University of Udine, Eerdmans Publishing Co., and Casalini Libri. As additional meetings, the Italian Evenings had the goal of promoting dialogue between international and Italian scholars. At each event new trends in Italian scholarship were presented and discussed. From 2004 to 2014 I was the co-chair of an SBL Unit Program entitled: "Construction of Christian Identities"; since 2012 I have been the chair of the Section "Apocalyptic Literature" for the Midwest Regional Meetings of the SBL.

Since 1995: Member of the Accademia di Scienze, Lettere e Arti of Udine and of the "Pio Paschini" Society for the History of the Church in Friuli.

Nov. 1995 - Oct. 1998: Coordinator of Mobility Joint European Project (JEP 09639-95) TEMPUS-PHARE.

Based on a proposal I prepared and submitted in 1994, this European Mobility Project offered Polish students the possibility of spending one or two semesters in a Western European university, studying subjects related to the general argument of the project: "Religious Interaction: Judaism, Christianity, Islam."

It was funded by the European Union with ECU 774,000 (more than $1,000,000 in '95) and permitted us to organize the mobility of approx. 40 Polish students every year from the Jagiellonian University and the Pontifical Academy of Cracow (Poland) to the Universities of Heidelberg (Germany), Turin and Udine (Italy). As a preparation for the extension of SOCRATES to the former communist European countries, it required strict cooperation and coordination of activities among all the partner universities. Starting with the third year of activity (1997/98), also West European students were involved in the mobility plan.

The "Final Conference" in Cracow, on July 19, 1998, was an international academic event, with professors and students from all five institutions involved, and Prof. R. J. Zwi Werblowsky of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem as guest speaker. The conference was included in the program of the SBL International Meeting of Cracow as the Additional Meeting of the opening day.

Feb. 1996 - Nov. 1997: Vice-Rector for the Student Mobility Projects (esp. the European project SOCRATES); University of Udine.

The European SOCRATES project aims to develop compatibility among European universities. It fosters student and teacher mobility, elaboration of common curricula, implementation of a common system of grading and credit transfer, and other similar activities.

I served as vice-rector for the coordination of all the projects for student mobility which were implemented by the University of Udine. Given the historical and geographical location of Udine, particular attention was given to the relation of our university with those of former communist countries and therefore I travelled especially in Central-Eastern Europe, to open new contacts on both administrative and academic levels. The activities associated with my function as vice-rector (in Italy as well as Finland, Germany, Israel, Mozambique, Poland, Romania, Russia, Slovenia, South Africa and the UK) are not listed in this CV.

1996 (Oct. 25): Benemeritus Universitatis Jagellonicae Cracoviensis.

Honoric title I received from the Jagiellonian University of Cracow for the work as coordinator of the Mobility Joint European Project Tempus, as described above.

1996 and 1998: Participation in European Intensive Course on "Bioethics Applied to Medical Practice."

A European program coordinated by the University of Udine (with the universities of Madrid and Amsterdam). As the only historian participating, I taught two two-week summer courses in English to students from the medical schools of the three universities.

1997 - 2008: Founder and first director of Italian Studies on Religions (ISR).

ISR (www.uniud.it/isr/) was the first Italian on-line portal on religious studies and aimed at helping scholars from all over the world to get acquainted with Italian scholarship and Italian cultural institutions and individuals operating in the field. In 2001 ISR became the Internet site of a large Italian research group on Jewish and Early Christian Exegesis and received financial support from the Italian Ministry of Higher Education until the conclusion of its activity.

Since 1997: Member of the NTSSA (New Testament Society of Southern Africa).

1997: Member of the International Board of the International Centre for Fundamental Research in Modern Culture, University of St. Petersburg, Russia.

1998 - 1999: Participation in European Master Program "Euroculture" (central coordination by the University of Uppsala, Sweden; partner universities: Groningen, Göttingen, Freiburg, Deusto [Bilbao], Strasbourg).

I was in charge of the partial local coordination of, and then of teaching courses in, this European master program, aiming at helping European post-doctoral students understand our common cultural roots. The topic of my courses was: "The Meaning of Christianity in the European culture" (one semester in Udine and a one-week intensive course in Uppsala; lessons in English).

1998 - 2005: Coordinator of bilateral agreement with the University of Zululand, South Africa (partner coordinator: Prof. J. B. Loubser, Univ. of Zululand).

On behalf of my university, I opened and was in charge of a bilateral agreement with the University of Zululand. This kind of partnership encourages the exchange of teachers and students between the two universities. In this specific case, the agreement was essential for a new international cooperation project involving humanistic and agricultural schools of our institutions. This project was accepted by UNESCO in the frame of PACSICOM (Pan-African Conference on Sustainable Integrated Coastal Management).

1999 and 2000: Courses at the Studium of Bose, Italy.

In October of each year I taught a one-week intensive course (on the figure of John the Baptist and on Revelation) to students who are or intend to become monks or nuns (Catholic, Orthodox and Waldensian Protestant) in the ecumenical monastery of Bose (near Turin), Italy.

Since 1999: Member of the NTSSA (New Testament Society of South Africa).

1999 - 2009: Member of the episcopal committee for the canonization of the bl. Odoric of Pordenone.

I was appointed by the first president of the committee and former archbishop of Gorizia (Italy), as the referent for the hagiographical aspects of its activity.

1999 - 2003: Coordinator of the degree program on Religious-Historical Studies, University of Udine.

Sept. 2000 - Aug. 2001: Member in residence at the Center of Theological Inquiry, Princeton (USA).

Research for my commentary on the Gospel of Matthew.

Since 2000: Member of the Board of Directors of the "Centro Italiano di Studi Superiori sulle Religioni," (University of Bologna).

Since 2000: Member of the "Istituto per la Storia Sociale e Religiosa," Gorizia.

2000 - 2002: Local coordinator of the "Research Program of National Interest" on Sacrifice in Jewish and Christian Exegesis.

In this national research program, sponsored by the Italian Ministry of Higher Education and coordinated by the University of Rome, I was in charge of the "research unit" of the universities of Udine and Trieste.

2001 - 2008: General Editor of Italian Texts and Studies On Religion and Society (ITSORS).

Published in the USA by Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Co., ITSORS was a series of English translations of Italian books on religion and society. Its main aim was to acquaint English-speaking readers with Italian socio-religious history and with the best of Italian scholarly research on religious and theological studies.

2001 - 2003: Local coordinator of the research program on Christianity Between Eastern and Western Worlds.

A national research program on Mediterranean Religions, sponsored by the Italian "Consiglio Nazionale delle Ricerche" and coordinated by the University of Bologna. I was in charge of the "research unit" of the universities of Udine, Trieste and Padua.

Oct. - Nov. 2002: Member in residence at the Center of Theological Inquiry, Princeton (USA).

2002 - 2004: Local coordinator of the "Research Program of National Interest" on Religious Conflict and Christian Identity.

In this national research program, sponsored by the Italian Ministry of Higher Education and coordinated by the University of Bologna, I was in charge of the "research unit" of the universities of Udine and Trieste.

July - August 2003 Member in residence at the Center of Theological Inquiry, Princeton (USA).

2003-2005: Vice-Chair of the "Dipartimento di Scienze Storiche e Documentarie", University of Udine.

2004 - 2006: Local coordinator of the "Research Program of National Interest" on The Transformation of Christianity (from I to VII century).

In this national research program, sponsored by the Italian Ministry of Higher Education and coordinated by the University of Bologna, I was in charge of the "research unit" of the universities of Udine and Trieste.

2004 - 2014: Co-Chair of the Section on "Construction of Christian Identities" at the Annual Meetings of the Society of Biblical Literature.

Since 2005: Member of the Teaching Board of the PhD Program (Dottorato di Ricerca) on “Scienze dell’Antichità classica e Cristiana. Antico, tardoantico e medievale: storia della tradizione e della ricezione” (University of Lecce, Italy).

Sept. 2005 – July 2006: Member in residence at the Center of Theological Inquiry, Princeton (USA).

2006 - 2011: Member of the committee of evaluators for “The John Templeton Award for Theological Promise” (Research Center for International and Interdisciplinary Theology, University of Heidelberg, DE).

2006 - 2009: Member of the international research project on “The Standardized Monetization of the Market and the Impact on Religion, Politics, Law and Ethics”, under the direction of Michael Welker (Wissenschaftlich-Theologisches Seminar, Institut für Systematische Theologie/Dogmatik, University of Heidelberg, DE – <http://www.templeton.org/what-we-fund/grants/john-templeton-award-for-theological-promise> and <http://www.fiit.uni-heidelberg.de/award/>).

This article examines the strange presence of two groups of “brothers” in the Genealogy of Mt 1:1-17. The author theorizes that Matthew has constructed, on a biblical basis, a critical vision of the function of “brothers” in salvation history and that this is consistent with his polemical attitudes toward the “brothers of Jesus”.

Books (1980-2000)

L'Apocalisse di Giovanni (Scrittori Greci e Latini), Fondazione Lorenzo Valla - A. Mondadori Editore, Milano 1999, pp. lxxviii - 389. 5th reprint 2009. English edition, Wm. B. Eerdmans Publ. Co., Grand Rapids, MI (2006).

Greek text, Italian translation, introduction, commentary and notes. The conclusion of a ten year period of research, this book offers a new Italian translation of the Book of Revelation and an extensive commentary, with a wide use of pseudepigraphic and Qumranic texts to support the explanations. The main goal of this work is that of introducing the reader into the mental and spiritual world of a 1st. Century Jew and follower of Jesus, as John was. As a constructive answer to post-modern criticism, the commentary discusses new proposals as well as traditional interpretation to offer the possibility of a balanced view for each passage.

1997 (co-authorship)

"Fra Gerusalemme e Roma," in G. Filoramo - D. Menozzi, Storia del Cristianesimo, vol. I: L'Antichità, Roma-Bari 1997, pp. 3-137. 6th reprint 2009.

The opening contribution in a four volume Italian handbook of History of Christianity for university students, showing the depth and complexity of the ties between early Christian groups and their contemporary Jewish movements.

Gesù Cristo e gli altri dei. Diffusione e modificazione del cristianesimo nei paesi extraeuropei (Oscar Saggi, 394), Milano, Mondadori 1994, pp. 277.

This book deals with the diffusion of Christianity as a world religion. From the age of the geographical "discoveries" onwards, it analyses the different phenomena of Christianization of the American Indians and the theological challenges brought to European culture by the discovery of a new and unexpected branch of humanity. It describes the birth and transformation of Afro-Christian and Afro-American syncretism; studies the various attempts of penetration into the Far East; and finally presents the cultural clash generated by the white-Christian conquest of Australia and the Pacific Islands. The concluding chapter depicts the ultimate challenge to Christianity which Oriental, "primitive" and Christo-pagan syncretistic new religions are bringing into the world of traditional white Christianity.

I Mandeì. Gli ultimi gnostici (Biblioteca di Cultura Religiosa, 61), Brescia, Paideia 1993, pp. 352. Reprint 2010. English edition: The Mandaean: The Last Gnostics (Wm. B. Eerdmans Publ. Co., Grand Rapids, MI), 2002.

The book is a historical and sociological introduction to Mandaeism, the surviving Gnostic community, dating from late antiquity. The first chapter depicts traditional Mandaean life and beliefs; the second describes the interaction between Mandaeism and the Western world, beginning with Ricoldo di Montecroce and the Middle Ages and continuing on to present scholarship, with particular attention to Catholic missionary activity in the 17th century; the third is a reconstruction of Mandaean history, moving backwards from the beginning of the Islamic Era to the nebulous origins of Mandaeism itself. The second part of the book is an anthology of Mandaean texts, with introductions and notes.

Giovanni e Gesù. Storia di un antagonismo (Uomini e Religioni, 60), Milano, Mondadori 1991, pp. 252.

This book is an extensive study of the figures of John and Jesus as they appear throughout the history of religious ideas. Christian (orthodox and heterodox, especially Gnostic), Jewish, Samaritan, Mandaean, Islamic and American Indian traditions are presented, showing the importance of history for a mature form of faith.

1988

Giovanni Battista nelle tradizioni sinottiche (Studi Biblici, 82), Brescia, Paideia 1988, pp. 126.

The book is an extensive investigation of the philological aspects of the figure of the Baptist in the synoptic Gospels. The redactional analysis of the texts related to John shows the theologically diversified interventions of the evangelists on the traditional material, the reconstruction of which appears to be much more difficult than normally believed. The same analysis also suggests that the case for the existence of "Q" rests on very scant evidence.

Giovanni Battista fra storia e leggenda (Biblioteca di Cultura Religiosa, 53), Brescia, Paideia 1988, pp. 476.

This book consists of two sections. The first is a reconstruction of the historical figure of the Baptist as well as the origins of and the reasons for his myth. It includes a historical and literary analysis of all the most ancient sources dealing with him (i. e. the New Testament and Josephus Flavius). The second part is an examination of the Mandaean myth of John the Baptist and of its relation with Christian traditions and legends. It contains a thorough analysis of the whole classical Mandaean literature, of the statements of 13th to 19th century European missionaries, travelers and scholars, and of the contemporary Mandaean folklore relating to John.

1980

Il cielo è il mio trono. Isaia 40,12 e 66,1 nella tradizione testimoniarica (Temi e Testi, 28), Roma, Ed. di Storia e Letteratura 1980, pp. 120.

This book deals with the anomalous text of Is. 40:12, often quoted by Christian writers together with Is. 66:1, and shows the persistence of a tradition of testimonia, which dates from the New Testament and Egyptian Christian magical papyri to the Latin Middle Ages. Many Christian writers did not directly use biblical texts for their own works, instead relying on some testimonia collections. These testimonia were often characterized by textual variants, which are not to be found in the Greek of the LXX or in the Latin of the Vetus or Vulgata. One of the consequences of the research is that many passages of Novatian cannot be used to reconstruct the Latin Bible in use in Rome during the third century - the so-called Romana.

Concluding remarks at the Final Conference of the aforementioned European Tempus Project. Presented in Cracow on July 19, 1998, the paper illustrates the meaning and goals of the project.

“Halakhah qumranica e halakhah battistica di Giovanni: due mondi a confronto,” in R Penna (ed.), Qumran e le Origini Cristiane (Ricerche Storico Bibliche 9/2), Bologna 1997, pp. 69-98.

This article analyzes the historical background of John's contemporary Jewish halakhic teachings, comprising both Qumranic and rabbinic sources. John the Baptist emerges as an independent halakhic teacher, sometimes close to the positions of the Pharisees, but almost always opposing those of priestly and Qumranic origin. The results show how scant the evidence is supporting the theories that wish to reconstruct a connection between John and Qumran.

“Il problema del male e della sua origine nell'apocalittica giudaica,” in AA.VV., Labirinti (Collana del Dip. di Scienze Filol. e Storiche, 11), Trento (Univ. degli Studi), 1995, pp. 31-51.

Historical analysis of the differing views on the origin and nature of evil in the Jewish apocalyptic traditions.

“Apocalisse di Giovanni e tradizione enochica,” in R Penna (ed.), Apocalittica e Origini Cristiane (Ricerche Storico Bibliche 7/2), Bologna 1995, pp. 137-150.

This article deals with the presence of Jewish Enochic traditions in the Book of Revelation. In many respects John seems to present himself as the "Christian Enoch," but on the other side his Christian belief in the uniqueness of Jesus as the Christ compels him to oppose opinions which were common in the Enochic streams of Jewish apocalypticism.

“Ancora sulla questione delle origini,” in Cassiodorus 1 (1995), pp. 213-218.

This article is a synthesis of my ideas concerning the origins of Gnosticism and stresses the post-Christian aspect of all known Gnostic texts, including the Mandaean ones.

1994

“La settima notte. Visioni apocalittiche della storia,” in Atti dell'Accademia di Scienze Lettere e Arti di Udine LXXXVI (1993), Udine, AGF 1994, pp.33-43.

Visions of time and history in the Jewish and Christian apocalypses in the years 70-135 AD.

This article shows the different meanings of the fall of Jerusalem in three apocalypses written shortly after that event: 4 Ezra, 2 Baruch and Revelation.

"Il battesimo di Giovanni Battista e il movimento battistico," in AA. VV., Battesimo - Purificazione - Rinascita (Dizionario di Spiritualità biblico-patristica, 6), Roma, Borla 1993, pp.63-75.

An article on the problems of the historical reconstruction of the figure of John the Baptist, as based on the only reliable ancient sources (NT and Josephus).

"The Seventh Night: Visions of History in the Revelation of John and Contemporary Apocalyptic," Henoch 14 (1992), pp. 113-132.

In depth analysis of the different speculations on the cosmic week, which can be detected in 4 Ezra, 2 Baruch and Revelation.

"Apocalisse e Apocalittica," in AA. VV., Attualità dell'Apocalisse, Palermo, Augustinus 1992, pp. 15-32.

This article describes the relationship between Revelation and its contemporary Jewish apocalyptic texts.

A research article on the halakhah of John the Baptist.

"Esegesi e simbologie apocalittiche," in Annali di Storia dell'Esegesi 7/2 (1990), pp. 379-396.

This article shows that the apocalyptic symbologies in Revelation are an exegetical device to explain and correct similar images in older Jewish apocalyptic literature.

"John the Gnostic: The Figure of the Baptist in Origen and Heterodox Gnosticism," in AA. VV., Studia Patristica XIX, Leuven 1990, pp.322-327.

This paper synthesizes the Christian Gnostic - orthodox and heterodox - interpretation of the figure of John, devoting special attention to the ideas of Origen, whose importance is emphasized.

1989

"Lo Gnosticismo," in AA. VV., Complementi Interdisciplinari di Patrologia, Roma, Città Nuova Editrice 1989, pp. 71-108.

A concise analysis of the history of Christian Gnosticism and its origins, this article is a part of a handbook for post-doctoral religious studies (an integration of Quasten's Patrology).

1988

"Viva San Juan. Il culto di San Giovanni Battista in area mesoamericana," in Numen (Leyden), 35 (1988), pp. 79-107.

An extensive analysis of the contemporary cult of St. John the Baptist, esp. in its non-Christian and syncretistic aspects, among the Indios of Mexico and Guatemala.

"Modelli scritturistici di comportamento ereticale. Alcuni esempi dei primi tre secoli," in Memorie dell'Accademia Nazionale dei Lincei CCCLXXXIII (1986), pp. 403-450.

The work shows how heretical and orthodox Christians of the first three centuries used the Scripture to find images and models to depict themselves and their adversaries.

"La nascita di un Santo. La figura di Giovanni Battista fra l'esegesi di Origene e quella di Girolamo", in Annali di Storia dell'Esegesi 3 (1986), pp. 247-258.

Jerome has the tendency to modify the passages related to John the Baptist, in his translation of Origen's Homiliae in Lucam, in order to make Origen's text conform to his own interests in monastic life.

"Santi, Dei e Missionari. Un caso di primitivo sincretismo religioso maya-cristiano, con particolare attenzione alla figura del Battista," in Studi e Materiali di Storia delle Religioni 52 (1986), pp. 113-127.

A discussion of a disputed passage of the 18th century Dominican Francisco Ximénez's Historia de la Provincia de San Vicente de Chiapa y Guatemala. The article shows the intellectual richness and theological difficulties of an indigenous attempt to conciliate Maya and Christian beliefs in 16th century colonial Guatemala.

1985

"La purità impura. Giuseppe Flavio e le purificazioni degli Esseni," in Henoch 7 (1985), pp.16-43.

A new approach to the understanding of the purifications of the Essenes, as depicted by Josephus Flavius, through Jewish literary traditions.

"I due Giovanni. Giovanni Battista nell'esegesi, nella vita e nella leggenda di Giovanni Crisostomo," in Annali di Storia dell'Esegesi 2 (1985), pp. 175-199.

This work demonstrates the importance of the figure of John the Baptist for John Chrysostom, not only in his exegetical production, but also in his own life and in the building of his hagiographical legend.

"Felices sunt qui imitantur Iohannem (Hier., Hom. in Io.). La figura di S. Giovanni Battista come modello di santità," in Augustinianum 24 (1984), pp. 33-71.

Analysis of the figure of St. John the Baptist as a model of sainthood, based on six categories of literary products: Homilies, New Testament Apocrypha, hymns in honor of St. John, narrations about his relics, monastic literature, lives of saints.

"John the Baptist: the First Monk. Contribution to the History of the Figure of John the Baptist in the Early Monastic World," in Word and Spirit (Still River, Mass.) 6 (1984), pp. 11-23.

A study of the importance of the figure of St. John the Baptist in the pre-Benedictine Greek and Latin monasticism.

"L'Arconte dell'Utero. Contributo per una storia dell'esegesi della figura di Giovanni Battista, con particolare attenzione alle problematiche emergenti nel secondo secolo," in Annali di Storia dell'Esegesi 1 (1984), pp. 165-199.

A work dealing particularly with the Gnostic heretical exploitation of the figure of John the Baptist. An analysis of the Greek Christian literature from the second century on this subject and of the Coptic library of Nag Hammadi.

"Poena aeterna nelle più antiche apocalissi cristiane apocriefe non gnostiche," in Augustinianum 23 (1983), pp. 361-372.

A study comparing the oldest apocryphal Christian apocalypses dealing with the beyond. Three groups of apocalypses emerge, each characterized by structural and ideological connections. The analysis is particularly concerned with the problems of the eternal punishment, the possibility of any intervention in favour of the damned, and the development of the idea of Purgatory.

"Novatien et les Testimonia d'Isaïe," in E.A. Livingstone (ed.), Studia Patristica, Oxford 1982, pp. 803-807.

Examination of all the quotations of Isaiah in Novatian's De Trinitate: the majority is shown to come from collections of testimonia.

"Contributo per un'analisi delle citazioni veterotestamentarie nel De Trinitate di Novaziano," in Augustinianum 22 (1982), pp. 211-227.

Examination of all the Old Testament quotations in the De Trinitate. Analysis of the use of the Scripture by Novatian and his different levels of interpretation. A hypothesis of his using a Jewish source.

"La morte di croce. Contributi per un'analisi di Phil. 2,6-11," in Rivista Biblica 27 (1979), pp. 271-311.

Phil. 2:6-11 is not a pre-Pauline hymn. A philological analysis concerning words, style and content shows that the text comes from the stylus of Paul - and it is probably not a hymn at all.

"Agostino e Ireneo," in Vetera Christianorum 15 (1978), pp. 113-115.

Analysis of the possibility that Augustine had already read the Latin translation of Irenaeus in the year 394.

"Marsilio Ficino e il De Resurrectione di Atenagora," in Studi Storico Religiosi 1 (1977), pp. 147-163.

Examination of the Latin Excerpta from the De Resurrectione written by Ficinus in 1490/92. Observations about difficulties which he, as a Renaissance Platonist, encountered with the Christian dogma of the resurrection of the body.

"Nota ad Athenag. Leg. XXXI,4," in Vetera Christianorum 14 (1977), pp. 162-168.

Comments to the amendment by Prof. Schwartz regarding the text of Athenagoras' Embassy 31:4.

1971

"Orazione Attica" (co-authored with F. Fanciullo), in AA. VV., Nuovi Papiri Letterari Fiorentini presentati al "XIII Intern. Papyrologenkongress", Marburg/Lahn, 2-6 agosto 1971, Pisa, Editrice Tecnico Scientifica 1971, pp. 5-7 and Fig. 1.

Editio princeps of a Florentine papyrus (saec. III^P), containing a fragment of an unknown oration, which shows analogies to the style of Dinarchus.
